Little Rock, October 1st, 1856.

His Excellency, ELIAS N. CONWAY,

Governor of the State of Arkansas—

STATEMENT F—Exhibits balance of salaries due and unpaid on 1st October, 1856.

STATEMENT G—Exhibits account of C. F. M. Noland, as Receiver in Chancery from 20th April, to 22d November, 1855.

STATEMENT H—Exhibits account of Gordon N. Peay, as Receiver in Chancery, from 22d November, 1855, to 1st October, 1856.

STATEMENT I—Exhibits the state of affairs of the bank and trust on 1st October, 1856.

By order of the Chancery Court of Pulaski county, made at the August term, 1856, the receiver was directed to suggest to Your Excellency, that a part of the assets turned over by the trustees, consists of lands bought by them under executions, decrees of foreclosure of stock mortgages, and taken in payment of debts; which are scattered over the State, and subject, by law, to taxation, as other lands; some of them have been sold for taxes, and others are liable to be sold. That the lands mortgaged for stock, together with the unincumbered lands held by the receiver in chancery, being the only means to which the State can look for the payment of her bonds issued to the bank, after exhausting the assets in the shape of debts due the trust, which, as will appear by statement A, the receiver estimates, from all the information that could be obtained, will yield not more than $600,000, leaving a large deficit, to be realized from the land mortgaged for stock; and as payments of taxes, out of the trust fund, are in effect payments out of the means of the State; therefore all the lands and property, held by the receiver, should be exempted by law from taxation.

Several propositions having been made to the receiver to purchase stock lands, held by the trustees, upon submitting them to the court for its action, E. Cummins, esq., attorney for the receiver, suggested that, "by the charter of the bank, all lands and mortgages for stock were transferred to the State and the bondholders; that, so far as the interest of the State and bondholders is concerned, the bank, while in existence, had no power whatever to affect or impair it, except in the single instance of allowing transfers of stock, and subtituting new mortgages in lieu of former ones: and, therefore, by the deed of assignment to the trustees, the bank could not, and did not, transfer to them, the power to control or affect this interest; and this interest did not constitute a part of the trust fund, to be managed, collected and controlled by the trustees; and the trust or power committed to the receiver, is no broader, in this respect, than that possessed by the trustees; that the Supreme Court hold the effect of the stock mortgages to be precisely the same as if there had been two separate mortgages; the prior one to secure the State and bondholders; the junior and inferior one to secure to the bank the money loaned to the stockholder on the faith of his stock. Therefore, as to the lands subject to stock mortgages, which have been bought or received by the bank or trustees, the receiver nor the fund has any interest or estate which is not determined instanter by a foreclosure and sale of the lands, under the prior mortgage, to secure the State and bondholders, for principal or interest due on the bonds. And the question, as to the policy of selling the interest, held by the receiver, in these lands, having been fully argued, the court ordered that they 'be withheld from sale, because, 1st. It is impracticable to fix any certain value upon an estate so uncertain. 2d. The State may deem it a measure, necessary to her protection and to her interest, to proceed to the foreclosure of the prior mortgages, for the interest due on original stock bonds, a sale, under which, would sweep away all other interests; and, 3d. In case the State should adopt this course, the prior disposition of the land by the receiver would cause additional expense and delay, for which the price of the lands, if sold, subject to the prior lien of the State and bondholders, would poorly compensate; the prices offered for the mere possessory right held by the receiver, being not greater in amount than the value of rents for three or four years.'"

The receiver submits, that these lands were obtained by the trustees after long and expensive litigation; that they yield but little revenue; that many of them are valuable, and if clear titles could be made, could be sold for fair prices; and, therefore, respectfully suggests that it would be to the interest of the State to proceed immediately to foreclose all mortgages of stockholders whose lands have been taken in payment of debts, or bought in by the trustees and receivers; or who have become insolvent, or died, their debts remaining unsatisfied; and to sell and purchase them in under the decrees of foreclosure. Good titles being thus acquired, they could be sold for large sums, and the proceeds applied to the payment of the bonds issued by the State to the Real Estate Bank.

The receiver would also respectfully suggest that it would tend greatly to consolidate the business of the trust, and diminish the general expenses of its administration, by doing away with the necessity of numerous agencies, if all suits were authorized to be instituted in some one court, with power to send process to any part of the State.

The receiver reports that, since his appointment, he has been constantly engaged in the preparation of the abstracts required by rule of the court to be prepared and filed as exhibits to the answers of the trustees; and, therefore, for want of time, has not been able to examine and report the condition of the lands held by the trustees, which will require some time to do, as a personal examination will have to be made of the records of the several counties in which they are situated.

The Receiver has endeavored to present the condition and affairs of the bank, in a form as condensed as possible, in the statements submitted, and if not deemed sufficiently explicit, will furnish to your Excellency such other information as may be required.

Very respectfully, your ob't serv't,
